

End-to-End Cloud Management to Protect Your #1 Threat Vector

Whether it's traditional malware, zero-day threats, or links to recently compromised sites, your email security relies on ongoing management to keep pace with the evolving threat landscape.

Many organizations have limited resources or lack the experience in-house to minimize your risk of advanced phishing attacks. GreatHorn can help by extending our team of email security experts to your organization.

Extend Your Expertise

Leverage GreatHorn's technical experts and receive dedicated resources to most effectively manage your email security, detecting and remediating more advanced threats.

Simplify Risk Reduction

Reduce complexity with up-to-the-moment management of policies and remediation. Improve your Mean-Time-to-Detect and Mean-Time-to-Respond to threats.

Optimize Reporting

With weekly threat reports, your team has a turnkey understanding of trends, detection and remediated actions that quantifiably reduce your organizational risk.

With the GreatHorn Threat Response Team, you'll be able to:

Improve Efficiency in Detection

Extend your defenses beyond your skilled security team with the support of GreatHorn's Threat Response Team. With front-line defenses from the experts who see the threats first, your policies are customized to automate detection and provide the highest level of defense against cybercriminals attacking your organization.

Maximize Response and Remediation

As emergent attack patterns are identified by GreatHorn's Threat Response Team, GreatHorn immediately takes action to remove and remediate any threats sitting in user mailboxes. This is particularly helpful in situations where a link is weaponized after the initial threat scan has taken place. GreatHorn's integrated incident response capabilities reduce your time to detect and respond, improving your ability to manage risk across your entire email system.

Receive Ongoing Maintenance & Support

When your business is compromised by a phishing attack, every second counts. With GreatHorn's proactive managed email security offering, you receive GreatHorn's technical expertise, combined with our best-in-class cloud email security solutions, optimized to the level you need to maintain the most advanced email security posture.
