

Extended Monitoring Managed Services

Proactive, Managed Email Security to Protect Your #1 Threat Vector

Email is the greatest business vulnerability, but managing your cloud email security shouldn't be time consuming or costly.

According to the FBI, email phishing and business email compromise scams cost organizations more than a billion dollars a month (and rising). If your IT and information security teams are overtasked or underfunded, you may want to consider a managed email security solution to minimize costs while effectively mitigating email threats and attacks that require rapid remediation.

End-to-End Cloud Email Security Management

Leveraging GreatHorn's technical expertise, combined with our best-in-class cloud email security solution, you receive the support you need to maintain the most advanced email security program for your organization. And, as a subscription-based cloud solution, the GreatHorn platform minimizes email management costs and reduces complexity within your email security program.
